To Whom it May Concern:

Dr. Parastou Jafari was engaged in classroom instruction at NYIT for the Spring 2009 and Fall 2009 academic terms as a distinguished associate adjunct professor. The courses delivered included DSGN 202, an interior design studio class for second year students, and DSGN 401, an interior design studio for fourth year students. Her contact with the students was exceptional and conducted in a highly professional manner. Dr. Jafari's keen interest in teaching provided students the opportunity to visit her professional design office, study sites under construction, and benefit from her many years as a practicing designer. I am deeply appreciative of her contributions made for the better advancement of our students.
